GROW CHAMPION CORN YIELDS

Hard work, skill, and good hybrid seed enabled these farmers to raise winning corn crops, even in the face of adverse weather conditions, in the 1945 National DeKalb Corn Growing Contest, sponsored by the DeKalb Agricultural Association. Nearly 6,000 farmers in 26 states and Canada participated in this, the 8th annual contest. Kentucky State Champions (left) are the Griffith brothers of Mason County, who took top state honors with a yield of 140.68 bushels per acre.

The U. S. National Champion is Mount Airy Farm of Shenandoah County, Virginia, represented by Mr. W. W. Middleton, Farm Manager. The national championship yield was 142.61 bushels of DeKalb hybrid corn per acre. The women had their day, too—Mrs. Ocho E. Lee, Jr., of Harford County, Maryland, captured the National Women's championship with a yield of 114 bushels per acre. And 17-year-old Charles Beatty, Logan County, came through to win the National DeKalb Corn Junior championship with a yield of 129.13 bushels per acre. The national average yield recorded in the contest was 82.84 bushels per acre—almost 1 1/2 times greater than the estimated 1945 national U. S. average of all corn grown.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

HARRY: "I don't know what they'll weigh up Judge, but my cattle and poultry sure have been gettin' fatter since I started to use this 'dried grains' in their ration."

OLD JUDGE: "You're about the tenth one who has told me that, Harry. How do you account for it?"

HARRY: "The by-product recovered from grains used by distillers is very high in vitamin and protein content. It's the best feed supplement we can get to balance the rations we feed our dairy cows, livestock and poultry. Mixed with original grain, these distillers' dried grains have a much greater feeding value than the original grain has."

OLD JUDGE: "Have any trouble getting all you need?"

HARRY: "Yes, at times, even though the distillers produced 1,200,000,000 pounds of it for the year endin' last June. I hope they'll be in a position to produce a lot more next year."

OLD JUDGE: "Then I guess nobody can tell you grain is wasted in distilling."

HARRY: "Not me, Judge... I know."

... and make a wish!

This is not Aladdin's lamp. It's just an ordinary railroad lantern. And yet . . .

Tonight, railroaders will swing lanterns like this all along the 8,000-mile Southern Railway System. And at their signals, long freight trains will start moving, roll out of yards and across the miles.

Loaded into the cars will be vast quantities of things to fulfill the wishes of folk in the South. There will be building materials, food, coal, clothing, machinery . . . all kinds of supplies and equipment for farms, factories, stores and homes.

Yes, a wave of the lantern at night . . . or hand and flag signals in daytime . . . sets in motion the magic of mass transportation . . . the dependable, economical, all-weather transportation service of the Southern Railway System. And that isn't all . . .

The Southern also "Serves the South" . . . and helps it to grow and prosper . . . by giving jobs to 50,000 Southerners . . . by paying taxes that help support police and fire departments, schools and other public services . . . and by purchasing the products of Southern mines, forests, factories and farms.

That's why we say "make a wish" . . . and if you wish for an even better and greater Southland, you'll find that the Southern Railway System is working with you . . . helping to make your wish come true.

Many Subjects To Be Discussed At Farm, Home Meeting

A general session for farmers all day January 29 and various phases of agriculture January 30, January 31 and February 1 will make up the program of the annual Farm and Home Convention at the University of Kentucky this year. Homemakers will meet in separate sessions all four days.
 The Wednesday session meetings will be agronomy, dairying, animal husbandry, and farm management. Thursday's meetings, agronomy, horticulture, animal husbandry, poultry, and animal health; and Friday's meetings, agronomy and rural church

Farm organizations to meet during the week include the state associations of Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey and Brown Swiss cattle breeders, the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association, the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, and the Kentucky Rural Church Council.

A farm and home equipment show at the convention will include the latest electrical and gas equipment for the home and farm, a farm-building and materials display; labor-saving equipment which can be made at home, and such implements as a one-man baler, baled-hay elevator and post-hole-digger attachment for a tractor.

The farm and the home in the reversion period will be one of the general subjects discussed at the convention. This will include the outlook for the year, improvement of farm home price regulations, cooperation, community organization, and health.

The church and community in reversion will be discussed at a meeting of rural pastors on Friday, February 1.

Build Cold Frame Now To Install in Spring

Working drawing for standard single sash cold frame.

Every gardener should have a cold frame, which can be used throughout the year, to do things for which nothing else will serve as well. If you lack one, the time to build it is in the winter, so it will be ready to install as soon as the ground thaws out in the spring.

The illustration shows in detail how to make a small cold frame of the standard size, 4 by 6 feet. To double it, make the end boards six feet, instead of three, and use two sash, separated by a bar.

Boards at least one-inch thick, of cedar, redwood, or some other moisture resistant wood, should be used. The construction should be solid. If you have sash of a different size, it is all right to build the frame to fit the sash. Instead of glass, a glass substitute can be composed of wire screens covered with transparent plastic, or fabrica-rated with wax to make them waterproof, and let light through.
 They are lighter than glass, and do not break, which is important in windy locations.

 The frame can be built in the basement and installed in the spring, or the boards may be cut and all other material prepared for a quick assembly job as soon as weather allows permits.

First dig a hole in the ground slightly larger than the size of the frame. It should be at least a foot deep. Into this hole put the frame you have built so that 6 inches of it is beneath the surface and the remainder above. This will insure that no drafts enter from beneath.

Place the frame so that the front is 4 inches above the surface, and the rear, 8 inches. It must slant toward the south, where the winter sun shines. It is well to hinge the sash at the top of the frame, so it can be easily opened for ventilating purposes and stirred.
 A sunny spot in the garden, protected in such a possible from the full force of winds and driving rain, is the best situation for the cold frame.

to home-seeking service men are three: (1) Help builders get good building materials quickly to make suitable, small homes. (2) Begin no public works to busy the building trades until the home need is relieved. (3) See that mortgage money is not carelessly thrown around. Bank loans ought to be easy on well-built houses and impossible on poor ones.

Report Stresses
 Soil Improvement

To build and keep up the fertility of the soil will do more for Kentucky than any other thing the people themselves can bring about, declares Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics in his report on agriculture to the Committee for Kentucky. To quote him further:

"Soil improvement is basic to practically all other improvements in farming and farm life.
 Immediate steps are needed to build up the soil on at least half of all the farms in Kentucky; and on most of the other half, further soil improvement could profitably be made.

"Building up of better farms on the scale envisioned here would be the work of a period of years—perhaps in 20 years the task could be accomplished. It would require a great deal of forethought, knowledge, hard work, and not a little capital. The methods are within the reach of all, and have been put into practice successfully on both small and large farms. After the war, farm people will have more funds than before with which to do these things. So far as credit may be needed, it is as sound financially to borrow or lend money for soil improvement as for purchase of a farm in the first place.

"Over the state as a whole the program for land improvement would require about 16 million tons of ground limestone for a ## basic application (12 times as much as was used in 1942), and 1,300,000 tons a year thereafter.

It would take each year about 3 times as much phosphorus as is now used, 15 times as much nitrogen and 20 times as much potash. It would mean the building of terraces on nearly 3 million acres and the rearrangement of lines to permit contour terrace. It would involve seeding a winter cover crop on about 5 million acres of land than are now regularly covered, and it would mean much more attention to effective use of livestock manure and crop residues. It would mean more good, improved pasture-land and meadow land (especially of alfalfa and clover and less plowed land. Over the years it may provide the basis for 40 percent more annual income for Kentucky farmers than they would have without it."
